ANNE WATERS HARTELL

IMPACT OF AUDIO BOOKS ON INDEPENDENT READING

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study is to investigate the impact of audio books on student motivation to read and engagement while reading during required independent reading in the English Language Arts classroom. The study uses student interviews, observations, and teacher focus groups to gather information on student perceptions of reading with audio books in an effort to address a problem of practice in the research setting.